Dear Parents/Carers

Consultation on our Relationships, Sex and Health Education (RSHE) Policy

At Purbrook Infant School, we are committed to helping our children develop the knowledge, skills and understanding they need to build positive relationships, stay healthy, keep themselves safe and grow into confident, respectful individuals.

We have recently reviewed and updated our Relationships, Sex and Health Education (RSHE) Policy to ensure that it reflects current statutory guidance from the Department for Education and meets the needs of our children and community. The policy outlines how we teach age-appropriate relationships, health and wellbeing education across the school and explains our approach to supporting children's personal development.

As part of the Department for Education's requirements, schools are expected to consult with parents and the wider school community on their RSHE policy. Whilst the policy has already been reviewed and approved by our Governing Body, we value the views of our families and would like to invite you to take part in this consultation process.

Our policy has been carefully developed to ensure that:

- Learning is age-appropriate and sensitive to children's developmental needs.
- Children learn about healthy relationships, friendship, emotional wellbeing and personal safety.
- Teaching promotes respect, kindness, inclusion and understanding of others.
- Pupils are equipped with the knowledge they need to stay safe both offline and online.
- Parents and carers remain important partners in supporting children's learning and development.

The policy is available to read alongside this consultation. Once you have reviewed it, we would be grateful if you could complete the consultation form via the link below and share your feedback. All responses will be considered before the policy is formally implemented.

If you have any questions or would like to discuss any aspect of the policy, please do not hesitate to contact the school. Thank you for your continued support and for taking the time to participate in this important consultation.
